

Bathing and Grooming Aids

There may be times when we are praying about a physical problem and we are fully expectant of healing, and yet we are in need of temporary assistance with some aspect of caring for our body. A well-designed tool can meet a current physical need and there are many websites where we can find innovative devices created to aid with cleaning, bathing, grooming, and other ordinary tasks. The websites listed here present a variety of useful products. Since they cater to the broad public, most of these websites use medical references. Remember, you can call a Christian Science Nurse to discuss needs and helpful devices.

Six Types of Grooming (The Wright Stuff) — This list provides an overview of the six areas of personal grooming aids to help keep you independent. The link takes you to The Wright Stuff, a website that supplies adaptive products for many different personal needs. Although the site is somewhat medically oriented, it carries many useful tools to provide temporary help if needed.

thewrightstuff.com/daily-living-aids

Bathing and Grooming Aids (The Wright Stuff) — The "Getting Ready" page on The Wright Stuff website carries a selection of bathing and grooming aids. The way to browse items is to go to the SubCategory section (toward the top on the left) and then click the arrows at the far right to scroll. The selection is large, so many products are medically-oriented, but if you scan quickly, you may find aids that can be helpful.

wrightstuff.biz/getting-ready

Elderlux — This website's "mission is to seek, find, and develop solutions for an active lifestyle." Their products, services, and solutions strive to meet each customer's needs. Elderlux was conceived and founded by Patrick Conboy. Challenged with finding products suitable for his parents, he traveled the world searching for innovative, helpful devices.

elderlux.com

ElderDepot — Founded by a family caregiver, Elder Depot has been providing quality supplies and home products for seniors for over 15 years. Our goal is to improve and enrich the lives of customers through careful selection of affordable products and time-saving shopping options. Our staff will be happy to work with you to share their knowledge and expertise in helping you find the best products to fit your needs. Most items are delivered within 2 to 3 business days.

elderdepot.com

Caregiver Products — Our goal is to be the leading provider of unique home products for people with different physical needs. We love to help people improve their lives!

caregiverproducts.com/

More Bathing and Grooming Aids (Southwest Medical) — The Independent-Living Aids section offers a number of helpful tools. This link starts you in Hygiene, but there are also devices for dressing, driving, and working in the kitchen. A few products are medically oriented, but most are not.

southwestmedical.com/