

Options for Assisted Living in a Christian Science Community

There are many definitions of “assisted living.” We have defined it as residential living in a Christian Science setting with care provided by or under the supervision of a Christian Science nurse. If this sounds like a helpful arrangement for your situation, please take a look at this resource. It provides a brief description and contact information for organizations and facilities that accommodate Christian Scientists requiring some assistance. (Note: for some listings, the name of the service at each facility is in parentheses.)

Arden Wood (Sheltered Care)

Only a few minutes from San Francisco, Arden Wood offers Sheltered Care to Christian Scientists who need light assistance with personal care such as bathing, mobility, reminders, guidance with daily activities, or help with vision challenges. Sheltered Care guests have a private room and bathroom, and meals, as well as access to a sunroom and Bible Resource Library. Arden Wood expects all Sheltered Care residents to be working with a Journal-listed Christian Science practitioner. For more information call (415) 379-2320 or email at shelteredcare@ardenwood.org ardenwood.org/shelteredcare

Creekside at The Leaves (Light Care)

Situated just north of Dallas, TX, Creekside is available to help Christian Scientists continue their demonstration of home in a sheltered, structured environment. The program supports the quest to challenge many aspects of the so-called aging process. Featuring upscale living, Creekside includes private patios, direct access to the grounds, and engaging activities. For more information call 972-231-4864 or email info@theleaves.org.

Glenmont (Progressive Living)

Located on the outskirts of Columbus, OH, Glenmont's gated facilities are surrounded by farmlands and are located near a pleasant shopping area. Glenmont is a Christian Science nursing facility that offers furnished rooms, three meals a day, assistance with daily tasks, and light support from a Christian Science nurse. For more information call 614-876-0084 or email glenmont@glenmontcsn.com.
